FPRI Fact Sheet

MISSION

Founded in 1955 by Ambassador Robert Strausz-Hupe, FPRI is a 501(c)(3) non-partisan, non-profit organization devoted to bringing the insights of scholarship to bear on the development of policies that advance U.S. national interests. In the tradition of Strausz-Hupe, FPRI embraces history and geography to illuminate foreign policy challenges facing the United States.

WHO WE ARE

The 82 affiliated scholars of FPRI include a Pulitzer Prize-winning historian, a former president of Swarthmore College, a Bancroft Prize-winning historian, and a former Ambassador and senior staff member of the National Security Council. We count among our trustees a former Undersecretary of Defense, a former Secretary of the Navy, a former Assistant Secretary of State, a foundation president, and numerous active or retired corporate CEOs, lawyers, and civic leaders. Our Inter-University Study Groups and our larger network of scholars include representatives of diverse disciplines, including political science, history, economics, law, management, religion, sociology, and psychology.

WHAT WE DO

We conduct research on pressing issues — the war on terrorism, developments in the Middle East, nuclear proliferation, relations with China, Russia, and Japan, sources of instability in the Western hemisphere —and long-term questions, such as the role of religion in international politics, the nature of Western identity, and the management of national security in an era of fiscal austerity.

We publish a quarterly journal, Orbis, and a weekly electronic bulletin, both of which draw on the research findings of our scholars, our Inter-University Study Groups, our conferences, and our seminars.

We educate the public and “teach the teachers” through our Wachman Center and History Institute, with a view to fostering civic and international literacy in the community and in the classroom.

We train interns from colleges and high schools in the skills of policy analysis and historical scholarship.
